

Lily Manoharan
Managing Director, Asia

EXPERTISE and EXPERIENCE: Strategy development, streamlining; execution and communication optimization; lean start-up performance culture and international collaborations

- Lily has worked and lived in nine cities across four continents and has led and facilitated in a range of organizations, both in emerging and developed countries. She has taken on multiple roles in various cities to start new projects, and successfully developed and led new business unit that brought in over 1.2 USD million in the first year and double in the second year.

Possessing strong global dexterity and communication skills, she decodes real issues hindering results in international, multi-stakeholder, cross-industries partnerships and programs, and puts in place solutions, systems, including inculcating values and mindset that ensure growth in organization and people, as seen in outcomes of global office and programs she initiated and led. As a seasoned strategic and operational leader, facilitator and partnership-creator, she is sought after for consultation, as well as conference-speaking, facilitating and training.

- Lily received her Bachelors of Applied Science from the School of Engineering, and Bachelors of Science in Economics from the Wharton School, University of Pennsylvania, in the innovative and selective Management and Technology program. For her research work in school cultures and education leadership, she earned distinction in Masters of Education from Deakin University. Lily is also a member of the International Advisory Committee of QS APPLE and MAPLE conferences organized by Quacquarelli Symonds, Asia.
